Expectations for Therapy

One of Robin's primary objectives, both as an ordained minister and professional counselor, is to serve the kingdom by offering hope to other co-laborers in Christ. His modality for offering hope includes the integration of biblical wisdom and psychological knowledge as an approach to the challenges that can so easily beset us.

Robin is not only committed to this approach, but is also committed to the body of Christ, the church. He has served in the ministry since 1983, and has served the kingdom in the roles of musician, educator, counselor, and pastor.

Specific Service Areas

Robin is confident in his efforts to provide treatment for the following:

- ♦ adoption issues
- ♦ depression
- ♦ grief and loss
- ♦ blended family issues
- ♦ race/cultural issues
- ♦ anger assessment and control
- ♦ stress and burnout
- ♦ workplace conflict and resolution strategies
- ♦ academic counseling
- ♦ men's issues
- ♦ adolescent issues (for parents and teens)

As an ordained minister and possessing a strong belief that iron sharpens iron, Robin is very interested in being a helper to helpers in the capacity of working with ministry professionals.

Offering Hope

Helping Others Persevere Effectively

Laying foundations in life can present us with numerous challenges. There are times when these challenges are manageable and times when we are overwhelmed with the demands that are placed on us. Sometimes we even place unnecessary demands on ourselves. In offering HOPE, I will assist you in sorting out the difficult details that life presents.
